

CEO Note: SensThys – A Solution & Engineering Services Company

A Series of Messages from our CEO... Jo Major

SensThys has doubled in size every year even through the “Covid Years”. This growth comes from the development of innovative hardware and software addressing complex engineering challenges with practical solutions.

Our technical team addresses fundamental challenges ignored by traditional RFID players, such as robust data integrity, unmatched network security, and sophisticated remote sensing. We work hard to understand and provide solutions for the frustrating and intriguing problems our customers face.

We take IoT security seriously.

Recent engineering projects include the integration of the RESTful API for configuration and remote management, a service to help companies quickly optimize remote sensing applications; a rapid authentication system, thought impossible by other players, for secure government agencies; the elimination of tag data errors and seamless incorporation of TLS data encryption.

Partner with us and learn what it feels like to have this team focus on creating solutions for you.
